As operator of the UK's first and foremost dedicated Direct Cremation service, I feel justifiably protective of my reputation.

I also care that you will be making the right, and informed choice when selecting a direct cremation provider.

Since I first offered my service, several other websites offering direct cremation have appeared "almost overnight" along with other sites offering cheap funerals. Some of these sites are using trading names very close to our own, and others have illegally reproduced my copyrighted site and associated information almost word for word, perhaps in an attempt to confuse you.....

Please be advised that I have no connection with any other web-based funeral service whatsoever, and I do not operate franchises.

To date, very few of these other websites actually advise you exactly who they are, and they appear very coy indeed to disclose just who is ultimately providing their service. Some sites are not even registered in the UK.....

Please Beware. These vague websites only give a phone number, and no other immediately checkable contact details. Their facilities, location and reputation are unknown, and their proprietors fail to openly declare their identity. Why?

My website provides my name, picture, address and every other reasonable contact detail you may wish to check - in order to ensure that you know, and can confirm that you are dealing with a reputable, established, and caring business.

My reputation is your personal guarantee.
